

OHIO AND THIS STATE

A STRONG BOND OF UNION AND CLEVELAND'S CENTENNIAL

The Coming Big Celebration of the Centennial Anniversary of the Founding of Cleveland—Great Preparations for the Event—The Coming to This State Soon of Governor McKinley and Other Ohio Notables—Ex-Governor Hawley the Orator of the Occasion—The General Plan of the Celebration Outlined.

Connecticut and Ohio have strong ties that bind them together in mutual friendship and regard, as all who are familiar with the part Connecticut had in the founding of Ohio readily recognize, and the coming celebration by the city of Cleveland of its centennial anniversary has a strong interest here. The centennial anniversary of the founding of Cleveland by General Moses Cleaveland, one of the directors of the Connecticut Land company, fell on July 22, 1895. A commission has been organized for the purpose of arranging a proper celebration of the event, and from the work already done it is evident that it is planning on a large scale and proposes to make the affair the most notable in the history of the city. The commission is organized with Governor William McKinley as honorary president, Samuel G. McClure as honorary secretary, Mayor Robert E. McKisson as president, Prof. Henry W. Elliott, formerly of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C., as secretary, and Wilson M. Day as general director.

The people of Cleveland are greatly interested in the projects which have been acted upon, and are supporting the work freely. It is intended to conduct an exposition opening July 22, 1895, and extending into October, and in connection with it to arrange a high class musical festival, an art exhibition, a yachting regatta, a state military encampment and many similar events. The grand celebration will be held in connection with the opening, July 22, when Senator Joseph R. Hawley of Connecticut will deliver a historical address, dealing with the significance and value of the development of the new Connecticut, as the western reserve was called, to the nation. General Hawley has already signified his acceptance of this honor, with the labor and research it entails, and the commission is congratulating itself upon securing him. It is generally felt by all that it was proper and appropriate for the historical address of the occasion to be given by a representative citizen of Connecticut, and the choice unanimously fell upon Senator Hawley. In the latter part of this month a delegation consisting of Governor McKinley, Mayor McKisson, Director General Day and others will come to Hartford and extend to Governor O. Vincent Coffin, Senator Hawley and the other state officials a formal invitation to be present in Cleveland July 22, 1895, at the opening of the celebration. It is hoped and expected by Cleveland's folks that a large delegation of state officials, together with some part of the militia of Connecticut, will be induced to be present at that time as the representatives of the mother state of the western reserve.

The plans for the exposition have not been fully matured as yet, but its general scope and some of the details have been determined upon. The New York Times says: The exposition building will cover about three and a half acres of ground, and will be unique in that the exhibits of manufactures will be confined wholly to the products of Cleveland's shops and mills. It is expected that the manufacturing section will mirror in miniature all the work now done in the factories of this city, each being represented as far as possible by its distinctive product. A complete canvass of the manufacturers of the city has shown that only one among the hundreds has refused to co-operate heartily and cordially, and it is understood that he is reconsidering his position. In addition to the exhibit of Cleveland's manufactures, it is proposed to devote sections to a marine exhibit, showing the progress and development of lake commerce in the most comprehensive manner; to an educational exhibit that will not only show what is now done in the schools and colleges of Cleveland, but manifest the changes that have occurred and the development that has gone on in the century; to a historical section proper, that will collect the relics of the century in this section, and reflect the history of a good share of the west; to a mercantile exhibit, and to a woman's exhibit, which is in strong hands and will give a bird's-eye view of the progress made by the sex within a century. It is confidently expected that the national government will make a fine exhibit of government departments, and especially of the fisheries section, which will have particular reference to lake fishing and its development. The building in which this exposition will be held will probably copy in general architectural style the National Museum in Washington, except that it will not be divided by walls, and the acoustics will accordingly be far better, making it possible to use it, by occupying the aisles, as an auditorium for great occasions, upon such occasions as the management may consider best.

In this connection, it may be added that a plan is on foot among republican politicians here to bring the republican national convention to this city next year. The exposition building will be completed in time to make it available for an auditorium, and as its seating capacity will exceed 25,000, prior to any exhibits being placed in it, and the acoustic properties would be unusually good, it is regarded as an ideal hall in which to hold such a great national gathering. Plans are also on foot for a fine floral exhibit as a part of the exposition. The Society of American Florists will hold its annual meeting here, and special pains will be taken to make the exhibit of flowers at that time both exceptionally large and varied.

The militia of the state are already interested in the plans that are making for the state encampment to be held. Ohio has over 5,000 militiamen, and there are several thousand members of independent companies that are also affiliated in a degree with the guard in the state. It is intended to bring this entire force together at one time in a great camp, and to invite crack companies from all sections of the United States to join in the camp and compete for the cash prizes that will be offered by the commission.

The arrangements for the yachting regatta are not yet completed, but it is expected that they will result in bringing together the largest number of fine yachts ever seen in a regatta upon the great lakes. Commodore George W. Gardner of this city, who has long been a leading lake yachtsman, will be one of the prominent figures in arranging the details for this meet.

Other plans of much interest are already in process of formulation, but have not reached a stage where they can be published. The work of the commission is being pushed rapidly and earnestly, and with a determination to make the celebration a grand success, both in its public observances and in the exposition, which will be conducted by a company organized for that purpose, under the supervision of the commission. The celebration of the event was not determined upon until last May and it was late in June of this year before the commission was organized. The work was hardly fairly begun before the 1st of August, so that barely a year is available to make all plans and work out all the details for the celebration. Naturally, everything is still in a preliminary stage, but the work is going forward rapidly and with such a united and harmonious spirit that it gives every promise of being successful. The promoters are not unaware of the short time at their disposal. They feel that they have undertaken to do in one year what other cities have taken two or three to accomplish, and are working correspondingly harder and more vigorously. Thus far obstacles have been overcome with gratifying success, and the outlook is highly encouraging.

REGULATIONS FOR BALLOTS.

Secretary of State Notifies Towns Concerning Recent Laws.

The following communication has been sent out from the office of the Secretary of the State today:

"In compliance with the provisions of an act entitled 'an act concerning elections,' and of an act entitled 'an act providing for a secret ballot on the question of license to sell spirituous and intoxicating liquors,' being chapter 107 and chapter 108 of the public laws passed by the general assembly at its January session, 1895, the following notice is hereby given: The type used in printing the ballots mentioned in said act shall be capital letters of ordinary Roman face book type, long primer size, the same as the headline upon this notice. Ballots containing names for presidential electors, governor, lieutenant-governor, secretary, treasurer, comptroller, representative in congress, senator, sheriff, and judge of probate, shall be eight inches long from top to bottom, and four and one-half inches broad. Ballots containing names for governor, lieutenant-governor, secretary, treasurer, comptroller, representative in congress, senator, sheriff, and judge of probate, shall be five inches long from top to bottom, and four and one-half inches broad. Ballots for town officers and for school officers shall be eight inches long from top to bottom, and four and one-half inches broad. Ballots for justices of the peace shall be five inches long from top to bottom, and four and one-half inches broad. Ballots for license or no license shall be two inches long from top to bottom, and four and one-half inches broad."

Official blank ballots will be furnished upon application addressed to the Case, Lockwood & Brainard Co., Hartford, Conn., stating the number and size of ballots wanted, at 20 cents per thousand for the size 8x4, 37 1/2 cents per thousand for the size 4x5, and 50 cents per thousand for the size 4x3 1/2. For the convenience of printers, these ballots will be furnished four to a sheet, 2,000 ballots in a package.

LAKEVILLE.

Accidentally Shot Himself to Death While Hunting.

Lakeville, Sept. 9.—Augustus Miles, son of William Miles and grandson of ex-Congressman Frederick Miles, shot himself accidentally on Friday while hunting in the woods near his home at Twin Lakes. He left early in the morning for a day's sport in the woods and after he had been absent about twelve hours his parents becoming alarmed at his delay in returning sent a messenger to look for him.

He was found lying on his gun, the ball of which had passed through his head. He was unconscious and died half an hour after being brought to his house. It is supposed he fell upon his gun, discharging it. He deceased was sixteen years old.

Bridgeport Soldiers Sick.

Since Company K of Bridgeport returned from camp at Niantic there has been an unprecedented amount of sickness among the members, says The Post of that city. Two of them, Frank Noonan and Henry Dawson, are ill with typhoid fever and six others are sick with other varieties of fever. They are Sergeant Smith, Corporal Botsford, Privates Randall, Hodge, Murphy and Carroll.

ALGERNON HULL MORSE DEAD.

The Well Known Professional Accountant Found Dead in His Room—A Sketch of His Career.

Algermon H. Morse, the well known professional accountant, was found dead yesterday morning in his room at 208 Crown street by Mrs. Sara B. Hinman, the proprietress of the house at which he boarded. There was no sound heard from his room during the night, and in the morning when Mrs. Hinman went to call him at 8:45 o'clock she received no response to her continued knocking upon the door.

Accordingly she opened the door and saw the body of Mr. Morse lying on a sofa in the room and covered with a blanket. His eye glasses were tilted on his nose and a newspaper lay across his lap. His appearance was very life-like, but he was dead, and Dr. Sanford, who was called, said that life had been extinct at least four hours. The doctor was of the opinion that the rheumatism which had given him so much pain had affected his heart and caused his death. The bed in the room gave appearance of having been occupied, and it is supposed that Mr. Morse became restless in the night and got up to read and compose his notes. The room was burning, and a singular circumstance which was noticed was that his feet were bundled up in a rug and covered in addition with two sofa pillows.

The sad news of his death was soon known throughout business circles and the singular coincidence was recalled that he it was who found the late ex-Governor Morris prostrate on the floor in his office in the Palladium building August 22.

Mr. Morse had been in good health for the past two years, but Friday he complained of rheumatism. He was troubled with this pain more or less on Saturday and on Sunday. On Sunday he went out in the afternoon and did not return to tea, but came home some time during the evening and went to his room.

Algermon H. Morse was fifty-nine years old last November. He was born in this city, his father being Gardner Morse, who is still living on York street and is nearly ninety years of age. Algermon was the oldest son. He was educated at Lovell school and also attended St. A. Thomas' private school on St. John street.

After leaving school the young man began keeping books, entering first the office of Hooker & Osborn, carriage manufacturers on Park street.

After working there for some time he went to Charlestown, Mass., where he kept books for a wholesale clothing house. Leaving here he went to New York, where he was in the offices of Stillman & Marvin and also of Lewis & Co. as bookkeeper.

While in New York he married Miss Eugenie Hughes, who survives him. After leaving New York Mr. Morse went to Springfield, where he was employed by Senator Haines as a private secretary. It was from there that he returned to New Haven about twenty years ago and opened an office as a professional accountant. Naturally quick and accurate at figures, his experience had ably fitted him for the work and he was considered as efficient and reliable an accountant as there was in New England.

His services have constantly been in demand. When Brewster & Co., the carriage manufacturers in New York, dissolved partnership he was sent for to straighten out the affairs of the concern, and he was also employed by Ailing, Webb & Morehouse in the Goldsmith suit against the New York and New England road.

Mr. Morse was a prominent member of the Sons of Temperance and took an active part in temperance work. He was also a member of Hiram Camp and Franklin chapter, F. and A. M.

Mr. Morse married Miss Eugenie Hughes, a New York lady, about thirty years ago. They have no children. Besides his father, there survive his sister, Sarah A. Morse, and his brothers, William and Gardner Morse, Jr. Two half brothers, Elliott H. Morse, treasurer of the Connecticut Savings bank, and Joseph B. Morse, and his half sister, Miss Adelaide Morse, also survive him. He and his wife had boarded at Mrs. Hinman's for the last sixteen years.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been made owing to the absence of Mrs. Morse.

To Nominate a Colored Man.

A call for a mass meeting of colored voters to put a colored representative in the field in the coming school election has been issued. The meeting will take place this evening at 8 o'clock at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. on Goffe street. Ex-Councilman Peaker will probably preside. Three well known colored candidates are in the field, Dr. Jackson of Orchard street, Rev. A. P. Miller and Dr. I. N. Porter of Dixwell avenue.

Funeral of Mrs. Connelly.

The funeral of Mrs. James Connelly took place from her late residence, 262 Davenport avenue, yesterday morning and was attended by a large number of friends of the deceased. The family has the sympathy of friends, especially as Mrs. Connelly's sister, Miss Gilday, was buried last Monday. High requiem mass was celebrated yesterday morning at St. John's church by Rev. Father Sullivan. There were many beautiful floral offerings. Interment was in St. Bernard's cemetery.

Tortured and Robbed.

Toronto, Sept. 8.—Last night three masked men entered the house of John Bullock, a farmer near this town, and tied Mrs. Bullock securely to her bed. Her screams woke Bullock, but he was immediately tied and gagged. The burglars demanded money, and when Bullock refused, they roasted his feet until the agony was unbearable. Thirty-five dollars and a watch were secured, and then the burglars took from the stable a horse and buggy and rode away.

Mrs. Wealthy S. Foote, proprietor of the restaurant on Chapel street, returns from her hotel cottage at Blue Mountain Lake today. Her daughter, Miss Sylvia, returns with her in much improved health; also Mrs. Louisa B. Killam, who has spent the season in the Adirondacks. Mrs. Killam had a respectable position in one of the prominent hotels, but some weeks ago the misfortune having been visited upon her, she and the remainder of the season she spent as a guest at Mrs. Foote's cottage.

Real Estate Purchase.

Fred Watterson, the Chapel street hatter, has sold the house which he recently had built on the corner of Edgewood avenue and Norton street. E. D. Fogg, who now lives on Trumbull street, purchased the place.

WELL REMEMBERED HERE.

Death of Mrs. S. A. Vann in Dixon, Illinois—Her Husband Was Years Ago a Carriage Manufacturer Here.

Below is given an article from the Dixon, Ill., Sun, of August 31 last. Both the Mr. Vann spoken of and his beloved wife, the latter of whom has now passed away to the better land, are well remembered here by many of our older residents, they having been residents here years ago, and Mr. Vann having conducted the carriage manufacturing business on State street, near the junction of Veto street, where John Gairway's livery stables are now. Mr. and Mrs. Vann were well known members of the First Baptist church here, and will be remembered by many of the older members of that church. Mr. Vann was an uncle of Mr. Frank A. Bowman of this city, who was for many years a leading photographer here. The Dixon Sun says:

"Last evening the summoning angel bore away the unfaltering soul of Mrs. S. A. Vann, and in her death a family mourns the loss of a faithful and loving wife and mother and our city an aged resident, loved and respected by a large circle of friends, whose esteem she won by her Christian life and kindly ways. Miss Jane Brown was born in Charlton, Mass., October 15, 1822. She was united in marriage to S. A. Vann in New Haven, Conn., November 14, 1844. Mr. Vann removed to this city in the winter of 1856, and in the following August Mrs. Vann came. Since then they have been residents of our city. Mrs. Vann was a member of the Baptist church and her life was consistent with the beliefs of that church. Four children resulted from the union, two of whom, Miss Alice E. and George B., survive the mother. They both live at home.

Though Mrs. Vann was quite aged and infirm and had been ill for two months past, her condition was not thought serious, and her death last evening at a quarter past five was a great shock to her family and friends. The immediate cause of her death was nervous prostration.

The funeral services will be conducted to-morrow afternoon by Rev. Leland at the house at 2:30 o'clock, and at the Baptist church at 3 o'clock."

A WOMAN'S RIDE UNDER A CAR.

Crossing a Southern Desert to California on a Brake Beam.

San Bernardino, Cal., Sept. 9.—A woman passed through this city to-day who had crossed the desert on a brake beam. She was discovered three days ago near Daggett by the crew of a freight train. She was dressed as a boy, but as soon as the trainmen brought her from under the car they were convinced that she was a woman, and she finally admitted that she was. She refused to disclose her identity, but said she and her husband had been living in an eastern city and he had deserted her, taking with him their little girl. She heard that he was in Oregon and had placed the girl in an orphanage. Being without means, she started out to beat her way there.

TO VISIT ENGINE HOUSES.

The Cambridge Athletics will see how American Fire Departments Work—Arrangements for More Seats at the Games.

Many invitations.

The Cambridge athletic team will visit the various fire engine houses about the city to-day, and will look over the New Haven fire department.

The committee in charge of the plans for the Yale-Cambridge games has arranged for 5,000 more seats than applications have now been received to cover. More application blanks have just been sent to all the leading eastern cities. They will be returnable in two weeks at Sherman Day, at Yale university.

Captain Horan of the Cambridge team expresses himself as greatly pleased with the track at the field, a cinder one, which the Englishmen objected to at first. Invitations to the English athletes have been received in great numbers to attend social affairs in the city and elsewhere, but the team will have to live under strict training rules here, and all invitations are declined. They have received an invitation from Cornell to visit the university, which was declined with thanks, and also from the Boston Athletic club.

A New Discovery

Like that is not made every day, and no wonder Mr. Jack Tar is frightened at the unlooked-for sight.

We have discovered something he'd rather not see. You'll discover something you'd rather not miss seeing if you drop into our store and look over our stock of Clothing.

Columbus wasn't happier when he saw land on that memorable Friday than you'll be when you see our counters groaning under the weight of mountains of Fall and Winter Clothing for Men, Youths and Boys.

Your happiness will not be unmixed with surprise when you learn the very low prices our goods are marked for the coming season.

But we will not quote prices now; we will wait for our annual display of Fall and Winter styles, which will be in a few days (due notice of which will appear in the New Haven paper), when an elegant Souvenir of the occasion will be given away to every visitor.

Children's Department.

As much as those Watches we are giving away in this department attracts the attention of the boys, the parents are even more interested in the wonderful display of our garments for the little men.

Emphatically, the stock is the largest and most complete ever seen in New Haven, and our prices are guaranteed to be as low as reliable goods can be sold for.
